FIGHT TRUCK MARKET

Commissioners to Hear Columbia Heights Protest.

FATHER MCGEE TAKES LEAD

Pastor of Shrine of Sacred Heart Canvasses Territory About Old Car Barns for Data to Prove Proposed Trading Place Would Be Hurtful—Cause of Objections.

The District Commissioners have granted a hearing Monday morning to residents of Columbia Heights who object to the establishment of a market in the old car barns in Fourteenth street, between Irving street and Park road.

Father McGee, pastor of the Shrine of the Sacred Heart, at Park road and Fourteenth street, who is leading the objectors, has been making an investigation, and has discovered that many of those who signed the application for the market company live far from the area directly.

Not only are they nonresidents in that sense, but many of them, he believes, have been misled as to the character of what is proposed. He calls attention to the fact that the market company, within a few hours of the granting of the conditional permit, inspired publication to the effect that the company would be prepared, by May 15, to accommodate farmers bringing produce to sell.

Difficulty He Discovers. Since that time he has suggested to those living in Park road, Sixteenth, and other streets, that, in order to get their produce to market early, they must begin arriving at all hours between midnight and dawn. That being the case, Father McGee has asked the owners of houses in that vicinity how they would like to have farm wagons rumble along Sixteenth street, on their way from Virginia to the stalls in the market, along about 4 o'clock on summer mornings.

Inasmuch as the back of the proposed market house joins the grounds of Powell School, in School street, he has asked the property owners in Lamont, Seventeenth, and Mount Pleasant streets how they will like to have to send their children to that building and Johnson School, across the street. He has also asked the owners of property west of Fourteenth street and north of Columbia road how they relish the idea of having Park road blocked with farm wagons going into the market from the proposed Park road entrance, which is alongside of the residence of Capt. Markham, the Assistant Engineer Commissioner, Park road, which is the street designated to be used by the fire department in going westward from Fourteenth street, is narrow at that point.

Congestion of Wagons.

Even without the proposed market, the objectors point out, it is congested with the delivery wagons belonging to establishments just around the corner from Fourteenth street. The congestion is such at times that automobiles and carriages en route from Rock Creek Park to the Soldiers' Home, or vice versa, are held up and compelled to proceed at a funeral pace.

From the law point of view, the objectors assert that a change in the building regulations was promulgated the very day the conditional permit was granted. That is, before any of those whose interests would be adversely affected could possibly know of the change in the law the conditional permit was granted.

Even waiving that, they insist there can be no compliance with those parts of the regulations not changed, for the reason that the Commissioners have not the power to erect buildings on the playground of Powell School, in School street. Unless buildings were erected on that playground there could be no compliance with the terms of the regulations. They require that the site of the proposed market shall be surrounded by buildings (the word was dwellings before the change) coinciding with the granting of the conditional permit, so as to hide it from the view of confronting property.

Cause of Their Objections.

The property owners of the vicinity are contending that it is neither decent nor equitable that they should be forced to consent to a depreciation of the value of their holdings, to the end that the owners of the old car barns, who were under no compulsion to buy them, shall have a profitable investment. Father McGee estimates the value of the church holdings at about $125,000, on which it is his desire to erect a $200,000 church.

Much of that would be destroyed, he believes, through the ruin of the neighborhood as a residence section by the establishment of a market. He merely points to the property surrounding other markets for corroboration of his declaration that a market of the kind proposed would result in the deterioration of values in the section bounded on the south by the emphysema and legation buildings erected by former Senator Henderson, on the west by Nineteenth street, on the north by Sixteenth street, on the east by Eleventh street.

MASSACRE STORY DISCREDITED.

Vienna Dispatch Says Jews May Have Been Expelled.

London, April 29.—Nothing has been received here concerning an alleged massacre of Jews at Kief, Russia, except a Vienna dispatch that newspapers in Bukharest printed a message from Kief stating that hundreds of Jews had been massacred there.

The Vienna dispatch discredits the story and says it is believed to be due to the expulsion of Jews in accordance with the law of 1906. It is pointed out that the soldiers and police, in carrying out the order, would undoubtedly be rough-perhaps cruel.

It may be recalled that a similar yarn, with lurid details, was printed by a German Jewish paper some time ago, and that it was subsequently disproved.

WESTON OFF FOR YONKERS.

Washington Falls, N. Y., April 29.—Edward Payson Weston left here at 2 o'clock this morning for Yonkers, where he will stay to-morrow. He will leave Yonkers for New York Monday morning.

Weston passed through Poughkeepsie at 6:40 o'clock last night, disregarding a drizzling rain and muddy road. He did not stop until he reached here, which is nine miles from Poughkeepsie.

When Weston entered Poughkeepsie he was met at the city limits by Chief of Police McCabe, who walked with him for two miles. Weston kept moving at a five-mile-an-hour clip, and the pace made the boys who followed him dog-tired to keep up.

COTTON FAILURE DENIED.

Corinth House Not Connected with Deatur (Ala.) Shippers.

Jackson, Miss., April 29.—Telegrams of inquiry have come to Jackson to-day from all over the country asking about the cotton failure reported from Corinth and Columbus. According to representatives of the firm here, the announcement of the bankruptcy proceedings against Steel, Miller & Co., of Corinth, are strenuously denied over the long-distance 'phone to-night.

An attorney for the firm authorizes the statement that no papers in bankruptcy have been filed against them.

It is not believed by the representatives here of the Corinth house that it had any connection with the firm of Knight, Yancey & Co., of Decatur, Ala., that recently went to the wall.

MRS. GOULD GIVES ESTATE TO GIRLS

Former Wife of Millionaire Plans Industrial School.

Lynchburg, April 29.—Mrs. Katherine Clements Gould, owner of the Blue Gray farm, on the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains, ten miles from Lynchburg, has donated the entire estate to a corporation formed under the laws of the State of New Jersey, for the purpose of establishing an industrial school where, according to the terms of the deed, "the young may be properly educated free of charge."

The deed for this estate has just been recorded in the clerk's office in Bedford County, and the property goes to this corporation to be known as "The Katherine Gould Industrial Farm," though she reserves for her use during her lifetime the manor house and so much of the park, stables, dairy, and outbuildings as shall be necessary for her use and comfort. Mrs. Gould purchased the property, which contains about 1,400 acres, for $40,000.

AMENDS RAIL BILL

House Adopts Physical Valuation Feature.

The adoption of the Madden amendment for the physical valuation by the Interstate Commerce Commission of every railroad in the United States was the big feature of the consideration by the House yesterday of the so-called administration railroad bill.

The measure is rapidly ceasing to resemble the administration measure as it was introduced by Townsend, of Michigan.

Thursday the House by a clear majority included telephone and telegraph companies as common carriers, subject to the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Yesterday the extremely radical Madden amendment was adopted.

To-day it will not surprise the stanchest regular, the wildest insurgent, or the most hopeful Democrat to see almost any sort of an amendment included in the bill.

Dozens of amendments were offered by Republicans, insurgent Republicans, and Democrats, but the committee was able to maintain its position with respect to a good many of these.

Most of the interest in yesterday's proceedings centered in the Madden amendment for the physical valuation of the railroads of the country. There was a lively row over this proposition before it was put to a vote. When the amendment came up for action, however, it had a clear majority.

Physical Valuation Safe. It is practically assured that the physical valuation proposition will remain in the bill as it finally passes the House.

An attempt by Representative Wagner, of Pennsylvania, a member of the Interstate Commerce Committee, to amend the troublesome commodity clause, was unsuccessful.

To-day will be a field day, with the long and short haul provision on the cards for action. The long and short haul proposition has been a constant source of trouble between the Interstate Commerce Commission and the railroads since the Sherman law was put on the statute books.

The proposed commission is authorized to employ engineers, experts, and other necessary assistants.

All railroads are required to furnish whatever information the commission desires and to co-operate in every way.

In the future the commission is directed to "keep itself informed of all extensions and improvements or other changes in the conditions and value of the properties."

An amendment was offered by Representative Good, of Iowa, extending the provision for law to water transportation in Hawaii was adopted.

Lively discussion followed the offering by Representative Hardy, of Texas, of an amendment to prohibit the employment of a member of Congress as counsel for a railroad.

LAW BODY SEES TAFT

President Urges Federal Protection for Aliens.

WOULD RELIEVE THE STATES

International Convention Will End To-night with a Banquet After Morning and Afternoon Sessions. Yesterday's Furnish Many Interesting Addresses on Citizenship.

President Taft asked the American Society of International Law to consider Federal protection of aliens under treaty provisions when the body called at the White House yesterday.

A statute to this effect would take the matter out of the hands of the States, he explained, and though he did not name any specific incident, he evidently had the trouble between the Japanese immigrants and citizens of California and other Pacific Coast States in mind.

"I am interested," he said, "in an instrument that I should like to call to your attention. It is that Congress shall put in the hands of the Executive the means by which we can perform our national obligations."

"We should not be obliged to refer those who complain of a breach of obligations to governors of States and country prosecutors when the violations are on American soil."

Indorses Root Idea. The President also indorsed Senator Root's plea for a tribunal that will allow the settlement of international questions peacefully. He said Secretary of State Knox is interested in this instrument also.

The lawyers spent the afternoon at the convention hall at the Willard, hearing technical papers. The basis of protection to citizens residing abroad was the subject under consideration. Prof. G. W. Scott discussed the question of limitation of protection by contracts between citizens and foreign governments, or by municipal legislation.

Explains Relative Citizenship.

Relative citizenship of persons and corporations was explained by Prof. Raleigh C. Minor, of the University of Virginia. Prof. Minor traced the growth of international legal understandings. Although he did not attack the present instruments, he said corporations, though entitled to the same protection under treaty acts, as individuals may call upon the nation for support.

Prof. Theodore S. Woolsey and Arthur Kuhn discussed the effect of unfriendly acts.

Prof. S. M. Macvane opened the night session with a paper on the question of domicile rights. Prof. John H. Latane discussed the same issue.

There will be sessions at 10 o'clock this morning and 2 o'clock this afternoon, ending with the annual banquet to-night at 7 o'clock, at the New Willard, when many of the foremost government officials, who are at the same time, members of the bar, will respond to toasts.

KERN PRAISES TOM TAGGART

Nominee for Senate Appreciates Friendship of Political Rival.

Hundred Telegrams Received from Democrats—Bryan Congratulates and Hopes for Success.

Indianapolis, April 29.—John W. Kern to-day announced that he would accept the nomination for the Senate and make the fight for Democratic control of the legislature. Of his relations with Tom Taggart, Kern said:

"I appreciate the friendship of Mr. Taggart. In years gone by, when I was so poor that I could hardly pay a month's rent, Tom Taggart helped me out by giving me a start, and I would not be human if I did not appreciate it. He appointed me city attorney when he became mayor, and I served two terms. I was also county attorney while Taggart was county auditor."

"These appointments meant much to me at that time. But we have never been close together in local politics. In fact, I have never taken an active part in local politics, and I did not know personally a dozen men on the Marion County delegation in the convention."

Hundreds of telegrams from Democrats have come to Mr. Kern, congratulating him on his nomination. Among them was this from Mr. Bryan:

"Accept my hearty congratulations. Success to you. We need you in the Senate."

FIGHT FOR KACHANIK PASS.

Constantinople, April 29.—The latest unofficial news is that a big fight is on for possession of Kachanik Pass. Tourgoud Pasha, the Turkish commander, began an attack on the Albanian positions there last night. The defenders had profited by their occupation to fortify the pass, and the natural difficulties of the ground gave further trouble to the troops.

They advanced with characteristic courage and determination, but the Albanians, equally courageous and determined, opposed them with desperate valor.

After many hours of fighting, Tourgoud Pasha captured one of the heights, but, however, he was unable to make the beginning of victory. The Albanian losses are stated to have been severe. The control of the pass, which is some twelve miles long, depends on the possession of certain dominating heights.

IMPERSONATES A PHYSICIAN.

Dr. Karpeles Complains to Police of Imposter in City.

The police are after a man who used the name of Dr. S. R. Karpeles, of 1102 Fifth street northwest, in an unsuccessful attempt to pass worthless checks on merchants. Dr. Karpeles made the complaint yesterday.

Thursday evening the imposter called at the store of M. Levy & Brother, 1013 1/2 Seventh street northwest, and said "He had been sent by Dr. Karpeles to buy paint. He had supplies to the value of $3.50 wrapped up and presented a check for $10, asking for the change, which was not forthcoming."

Half an hour later he turned up at the establishment of Joseph A. Pierre, 454 New York avenue northwest, ordered a ton of coal, which came to $4.90, and again tendered the check, which was again dishonored. It is understood that the check was on a Laurel (Md.) bank.

DEAF-MUTE SAVES GIRL CLASSMATE

death in store for the plucky youth. He could not swim in the swirling waters, and his only efforts were made to keep on the surface, trusting to luck that the current would carry him beneath the ledge where Miss Edington disappeared.

He guessed right, and before he knew it his hand came in contact with the girl. She was wedged between two rocks. Rockwell grasped her clothing and pulled on the rope. He would never have dragged himself back to the rock from which he jumped had not several students seen the accident and came to his aid. They untied the rope and pulled Rockwell and the girl to safety.

Miss Edington was unconscious and the youth did not lose his nerve. He placed the body of the girl across a rock, face downward, so that the water was forced from her lungs. He worked over her for five minutes, but was not rewarded by a sign of returning consciousness.

Miss Edington Revived. Scores of men, women, boys, and girls made their way down the rocks to the girl, and Rockwell was given assistance. After ten minutes Miss Edington was revived. She was carried to the camping grounds and given stimulants.

The day was chilly, and no one knew where to procure dry clothing for the girl. Rockwell, wet and cold, searched among the tents until he found a suit of outing clothes used in the morning by one of the students. He gave these to Miss Edington and she donned them in a tent. Before she left the tent, Rockwell had procured a long overcoat, which concealed her.

Rockwell was provided with dry clothing and the party returned to Washington. Miss Edington riding to her home on the cars in the masquerade of a boy. She fastened her hair on the top of her head and wore a derby, with the collar of the coat turned up so that her long tresses were concealed. No one beside the members of the party discovered that Miss Edington was a girl in boy's clothing, although she rode on street cars from Great Falls to her home in Sixth street northeast.

Mrs. Edington gave her daughter several home remedies and put her to bed. The girl suffered no ill effects, and Rockwell escaped, except for a severe cold.

Mr. and Mrs. Edington thought of every way of rewarding Rockwell for his heroism in saving their daughter, and finally decided to present him with a gold medal. The medal bears the inscription, "Walter C. Rockwell, Heroism, Great Falls, March 25, 1910. Presented by the Edington family, April 29, 1910."

FOUR GIRLS SOLD; TRAFFICKERS HELD

Magistrate Fixes Bail at $10,000 for Prisoner.

New York, April 29.—The grand jury investigating the "white slave" traffic has found that not only do the conditions described in magazine articles exist, but that their representative, James B. Reynolds, through its agents, has been able actually to purchase four young women, two of whom are mere girls.

Three arrests were made to-day by Detectives Leigh and Thomas, attached to the office of District Attorney Whitman, and another arrest is expected to-morrow.

Harry Levinson, who trafficked in girls on the East Side, and Bell Moore, a negro, who sold white girls on the West side, are the principals. Alice Anderson, a negro who was employed in the Union Cafe, in Broadway, near Fortieth street, was arrested. He is said to have had a hand in the sale of the girls purchased from Bell Moore. Another man is being sought.

Levinson was taken before Magistrate Breen, in the Tombs Police Court, where he was held on a short affidavit alleging that he had compelled two girls to lead evil lives.

Assistant District Attorney Press asked the magistrate to hold the prisoner in $25,000 bail, but the magistrate thought that $10,000 was sufficient to hold him, and bail was fixed at that amount.

FOR EASIER SUPPRESSION.

White Slave Congress Decides to Draft International Agreement.

Paris, April 29.—The International White Slave Congress, which has been in session here for several days, decided this afternoon to draw up immediately an international agreement for the establishment of a bureau in each country in order to make easier the suppression of this traffic.

Under this agreement the circulation of objectionable literature will be stopped. The arrangement is to go into effect as soon as it has been approved by the different governments.

LEAVITT'S THREATS FUTILE.

Bryan Family Sure He Cannot Secure the Two Children.

Lincoln, Neb., April 29.—William Homer Leavitt, divorced husband of Ruth Bryan Leavitt, cannot possibly secure possession of the two Leavitt children, as he to-day made threats of doing, and the Bryan family do not believe that Leavitt intends to make an effort at securing them.

When the divorce was granted, Mrs. Leavitt was given full custody of the children, the father being given permission to see them occasionally. He has never taken advantage of the permission, however, and has paid absolutely no attention to them for years. During the trial, evidence was brought out showing that Leavitt had never supported his wife and children, and that but for cash gifts from Mr. Bryan they would have suffered for the necessities of life.

Leavitt cannot interfere in any way with the second marriage of his ex-wife, either.

PARROT SPOKE GOOD ENGLISH.

Italian Woman's Pet Ends Doubt as to Citizenship.

New York, April 29.—Mrs. Felipa Carrolo, a passenger by the Italian steamship San Giorgio, to-day said she had lived in America twenty-four years, and that her husband, who is dead, had been an American citizen.

She spoke little English, and the Ellis Island inspector who took her pedigree was inclined to doubt her.

While he was meditating whether or not he should send her to a board of special inquiry he was startled by a voice, distinctly American, which said:

"Go to it."

"What's that?" said the inspector.

"Oh," said the lady in broken English, "that's my parrot."

"Cut that out," said the parrot.

"Madam," said the inspector, "I guess you have lived here long enough. Go through."

FUEL CORPORATION ELECTS DIRECTORS

Washington Man Chosen on the Board of A. C. C. & I.

Baltimore, Md., April 29.—At a meeting of the board of directors of the Alabama Consolidated Coal and Iron Company, held at the Hotel Belvedere to-night, the following directors were elected to succeed the present ones: Douglas H. Gordon, William Ingie, R. Lancaster Williams, J. W. Middendorf, and James L. Sellman, of Baltimore; Harry S. Matthews, of Birmingham, Ala.; Joseph H. Headley, of New York; K. L. McLaren, of Jersey City, and H. S. Meserve, of Washington.

This gives the Baltimore preferred stockholders control of the property, six of the directors named being identified with the Baltimore interests, against Mr. Headley's representation of the three remaining members on the board, who are Mr. Matthews, Mr. McLaren, and Mr. Headley himself.

The Baltimore interests are favorable to making H. S. Meserve president of the company, and it is not at all unlikely that Mr. Headley's resignation will follow in a few days, and Mr. Meserve be named as his successor. Mr. Meserve is temporarily located in Washington, and represents Perkins & Jennings, a branch house of London, who have an office in Washington.
